INTRODUCTION

Although the soybean plant has been cultivated in this country for many decades, it is only in recent years that its production and consumption has become widespread. The importance of soybeans as a source of high protein and as an essential food additive has increased dramatically. In the early part of this century, soybeans accounted for less than 1% of total U.S. grain production. Today, soybeans are the nation's second largest crop. Continued high international demand for soybeans and its products, meal and oil, as well as favorable price structures for the crop, have resulted in record acreage planted.

The market for U.S. soybeans continued to grow in 1979. Increased international demand for soybeans as well as growing domestic food consumption patterns contributed to record production levels. Total 1979 soybean crop production came to nearly 2.3 billion bushels, an increase of 21% from 1978 levels. Excellent planting and harvesting weather, in addition to widespread use of fertilizers, helped increase the size of the 1979 crop. Planted soybean acreage increased by over 7 million acres in 1979, compared with a 5½ million acre increase for wheat and ½ million acre increase in corn.

Recognizing the significance of the 1979 soybean crop, the Chicago Board of Trade has published a one year supplement to last year's Six Year Soybean and Oilseed Statistical Summary, giving the reader a seven year statistical framework for analysis of the soybean market.

The Chicago Board of Trade is proud of the role we play in the soybean trade: as a market where producers and commercial users of soybeans can shift the risk of changing prices to speculators with the necessary capital and temperament to accept these risks.

An important effect of this risk-shifting activity is the price information which results from the competition between highly informed buyers and sellers. These prices are an extremely accurate measurement of the supply and demand for soybeans, oil, and meal at any one time. The accessibility of accurate price information is beneficial to the entire soybean industry as an input to business decisions involving soybean prices. This book represents just one of the various methods which the CBT uses to disseminate the price data. If you need further information, please call or write to:

<sup>1</sup> Split years shown refer to years of harvest. Northern Hemisphere crops which are harvested in the first part of the split year (for example September-October, 1975) and Southern Hemisphere crops which are harvested in the first part of the following year (for example March-April, 1976). In this example, the split year designation would be 1975/76. <sup>2</sup> Figures refer to harvested areas as far as possible. <sup>3</sup> Estimated. <sup>4</sup> Hectare harvested for beans. <sup>5</sup> Planted area. <sup>6</sup> Quantities purchased by the Nigerian Marketing Board for exports. <sup>7</sup> European farms only. <sup>8</sup> Sales. <sup>9</sup> Includes former South Vietnam.
